9 Die In Crash Of Navy Search Plane In Italy

Roberts, Noted U.S. Historical Novelist, Dies

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine, July 21 (AP)—Author Kenneth Roberts, whose historical novels have repeatedly made the best-seller lists since 1937, died today. He was 71.

His family said Roberts had been in bed for only a week and had just completed proof-reading another novel "Water Unlimited" due for October publication. A niece, Miss Marjorie Mosser, said death was due to coronary thrombosis.

Recently Roberts won a special Pulitzer citation for his books which the Pulitzer committee said "have long created a greater interest in our early American history."

Death came at Roberts' seaside farm where he said he "dabbled in off-beat agriculture." He specialized in vegetables, some of which grew to three times their normal size.

The farm is adjacent to the home of his late friend Booth Tarkington, who created "Penrod." Roberts always paid tribute to Tarkington for his "immeasurable" aid in his writing problems.

A 6-footer, a rapid conversationalist and eager worker, Roberts first hit the charmed circle of literary best sellers with "Northwest Passage" in 1937. His last published novel was "Boon Island."

Prior to "Northwest Passage," a story of French and Indian War days, Roberts produced a series of romantic-realistic novels dealing with the Revolution and War of 1812, starting with "Arundel" and followed by "The Lively Lady," "Rabble in Arms," and "Captain Caution."

Roberts was born here on Dec. 8, 1885. His family settled in Maine in 1839 and its men had fought for American rights ashore and ashore. Long before he turned to writing he had heard from his grandmother the stories of his ancestors. Later these stories were to become entwined in his books.

Bomber Strikes Mountain, Burns

TURIN, Italy, July 21 (AP)—A U.S. Navy Neptune bomber searching for a missing sister plane hit a mountain today and burst into flames, killing nine airmen. A tenth was dragged from the wreckage suffering from severe burns.

The wrecked plane was one of 20 U.S. and Italian aircraft searching for another Navy P2V Neptune patrol bomber that disappeared Friday with 11 aboard. It had been on a flight from Casablanca to Treviso, near Venice.

The search plane crashed near M. Pra, between here and the French Alpine frontier.

Mountain climbers saw the plane go into a wing slip, plunge into the mountainside and blaze up. Some bodies were hurled clear of the burning wreckage, they said.

The climbers said they found two airmen alive at the wreck scene. One of them died shortly after being hauled from the flames.

Doctors at Turin Hospital said the one survivor did not appear to have suffered broken bones but was burned severely.

U.S. officials at Aviano Air Base declined to make public the names of those aboard the wrecked search plane.

A Navy spokesman said yesterday that some of those aboard the plane which disappeared Friday were reservists from the Philadelphia area. The plane, a Neptune patrol bomber, was making what the Navy called a routine training flight from Port Lyautey, Morocco. It was one of five patrol bombers which took 95 officers and men on a two-week Mediterranean training tour.

Search for the missing plane has been impeded by heavy clouds and severe rainstorms. Italian air-sea rescue center officers say they fear the plane overshot Treviso and fell into the Adriatic.

MAYOR JAILED — Mayor Paul Egan looks out from behind the bars of a cell in his own Aurora, Ill., jail as he does a two-hour stretch before friends bailed him out on charge of assault and battery on W. B. Robertson, the city's sewer commissioner. It seems Egan landed a looping right hook on Robertson's cheek at a council meeting. Egan said he didn't have $200 bond although he had his $288.90 pay check in his pocket.

U.S. To Brief Allies On Any Zhukov Talks

European Capitals Reportedly Upset By Idea Of Meeting

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The United States is understood to have promised European allies they will be kept fully informed if any top-level talks are held between American leaders and Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov.

This action was taken quietly and informally, informants reported, after officials here received reports that Allied capitals were upset by the possibility of a meeting between Zhukov and President Eisenhower.

As of today top authorities here are by no means certain this possibility will work out. Some are said to be unenthusiastic about having it work out any time in the near future.

Decision Reported As "No"

In fact these officials reported yesterday that the Eisenhower administration has decided against inviting Zhukov to the United States.

They said this decision was reached before newsmen asked Eisenhower last week about the possibility of an exchange of visits between Zhukov and Secretary of Defense Wilson and was reaffirmed afterwards. They said Eisenhower never intended to make it appear there was any plan afoot to invite Zhukov.

These officials said the basis of the no-invitation decision was this: that the advantages of a closer contact with the new Soviet leadership, in which Eisenhower's old comrade in arms, Zhukov, is strongly entrenched, are outweighed by the disadvantages. As they see it, the chief disadvantage would be that the air of U.S. acceptance implicit in a Zhukov visit would take much of the steam out of the worldwide censure which shattered Soviet prestige and the Kremlin's posture of post-Stalin respectability after the Red army ruthlessly crushed the Hungarian revolution last November.

The officials did not rule out the possibility that the Russians might pick up the ball now and try on their own initiative to press for a Zhukov-Wilson exchange. It could be, they said, that in time such visits might indeed become inevitable.

The mood in Congress was mixed. Some members agreed with Eisenhower's statement that an exchange might be useful. But others strenuously objected.

The question came up in House debate Friday, with Zhukov being described by some members as "the butcher of Budapest." Several legislators advised the administration not to invite him to this country.

The possibility of an invitation arose out of President Eisenhower's news conference last Wednesday when he responded favorably to a number of questions about whether Zhukov might come to Washington.

Stenog Chosen Miss Virginia

ROANOKE, Va., July 21 (AP)—A pretty Tarheel girl—who didn't even cry when the good news was announced—Saturday night captured the title of Miss Virginia and with it a ticket to the glittering Miss America spectacle in September.

Brown-haired Rebecca Ann Lee, who came to Virginia only last fall to look for a job, was almost too excited to talk. And the 22-year-old railroad stenographer shed no tears, as traditional beauty queens are supposed to do.

They had barely recovered from that shock, however, when they learned the queen of the entire contest, the Peruvian beauty selected as Miss Universe, was only 17, violating another entry rule that the girls must be between 18 and 23.

But where they had chuckled their married Miss United States—Maryland's Mary Leona Gage Ennis—out of the contest, they decided to let the youthful Gladys Zender take the Miss Universe crown back to Lima with her.

Britain Under Pressure To Go To Sultan's Aid

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—Britain was under pressure today to send help to the Sultan of Muscat and Oman in his fight against rebellious tribesmen in the potentially oil-rich Persian Gulf state.

A Foreign Office spokesman confirmed that British officials in the region were conferring with Sultan Said bin Taimur, but said: "I have no knowledge of any movement of British ground forces into Muscat."

The cliffside appeared to swell like a balloon. Then the dust and smoke spurted between the cracks as the rock crumbled apart and fell back to the earth. The cloud rising above the blast was chiefly dust.

The blast of 1,790,000 pounds of explosives loosened an estimated three million tons of rock which will be hauled into a 13-mile dirt fill across the lake. It is to replace a wooden trestle on the Southern Pacific's Lucin cutoff.

Biggest Nonatom Explosion Jolts Utah Peninsula

LITTLE VALLEY, Utah, July 21 (AP)—The biggest nonatomic explosion ever set off in the United States rocked this northern Utah peninsula in Great Salt Lake exactly as scheduled at 10:30 this morning.

The blast sent up a cloud of dust and smoke exceeding predictions. Rocks showered onto nearby high tension lines and a transformer station and broke the lines, setting off a gaudy display of blue flashes which could be seen through the billowing clouds.

I also blew out telephone communications with the outside world.

Ex-Con Sought In Housewife's Slaying Seized

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—FBI agents last night arrested a 32-year-old Negro ex-convict charged with killing an Omaha, Neb., housewife.

The prisoner, George Daniel Jones Jr., is charged in a state warrant with shooting Mrs. Rita Kappenman, 21, to death in her basement apartment home May 29.

Omaha police officials flew here today and questioned him about the Kappenman slaying and that of Carolyn Nevins, a University of Omaha coed, whose killing in Dec. 1955 is unsolved.

Police Chief C. H. Ostler of Omaha said that Jones denied any connection with either case.

Jones, sought since early June in connection with the Kappenman case, was seized in a North Side subway station on a federal warrant charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

The Omaha officials took Jones to a detention room at the detective bureau for extended questioning.

Jones was returned to his cell after two hours of questioning. Mrs. Kappenman's body was found in the bedroom of her basement apartment home by her husband, Keith, a Creighton University student, when he returned from final examinations.

Senate Rackets Unit Schedules New Dio Probe

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) said today the Senate Rackets Committee will center a new investigation around Johnny Dio, the New York gangster.

Hearings will open in Washington Tuesday July 30.

McClellan said they "will center around the activities of Johnny Dio and the use of his followers in the power struggle for the control of the Teamsters Union in New York City and the East Coast."

Dio, also known as John Dioguardi, until recently was district head of the Allied Industrial Workers Union in New York.

The 42-year-old Dio, along with three others, is accused of conspiring to obstruct justice in the acid-blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel. Dio was tabbed as the "mastermind" of the plot. However, the government recently postponed the trial indefinitely when two key witnesses declined to testify against Dio and his companions.

In formally disclosing the New York hearings, McClellan said that "From the inception of this committee one of its primary objectives has been to investigate racketeer and criminal operations in dealing with the problem of hoodlum control of labor unions."

"I expect it will be developed that hoodlums and racketeers assume positions of importance only because of the aid and assistance given them by certain high labor union officials not only at the local but at the national level."

"Because of the kind and type of people who for the most part will be called as witnesses we anticipate that there will be obstruction tactics used against the committee. We are already aware of the destruction of books and records by certain individuals. Witnesses have already indicated to the staff that they will refuse to testify, some because of fear but for the most part, because they have something to hide. However, I feel these things in of themselves will present a picture from which reasonably accurate deductions can be made."

Girl Pinned In Wrecked Plane 40 Hours Rescued

Parents And Pilot Killed In Nebraska Crash

BINGHAM, Neb., July 21 (AP)—A 17-year-old girl was pulled from the wreckage of a small plane today after she had spent 40 hours pinned inside with the bodies of her parents and the pilot.

A search plane crew saw a white scarf waving from the wreckage as they went over and Don Christiansen of Alliance, Neb., said, "We were amazed to find someone alive."

Judy Diehl of Cozad, Neb., was a "good spirit" when rescuers reached her, despite the fact she suffered a broken leg and her foot was pinned under a seat beside the body of her mother, Carolyn Diehl, 45.

In the front seat of the plane were Merritt Diehl, about 45, Judy's father, and Milo German, about 55, president of Nebraska Plastics Inc., of Cozad.

The plane crashed 25 miles south of here during a rainstorm Friday night in a rugged, uninhabited area of Nebraska's sandhills about 375 miles from Omaha. The Diehls and German apparently were killed instantly.

Judy said she had only a banana to eat during the long hours, but was fortunate in being able to "catch some rain water."

Judy, wearing a blouse and jeans, was in "surprisingly good condition" considering the temperature dropped to about 60 this morning in the area.

She told her rescuers that they took off from Alliance Friday night, ran into the storm and were heading back to Alliance when the plane hit the top of a hill.

White House Calls For New GOP Efforts

Meeting Of Minds With North Dems Might Avert Defeat

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The White House was reported urging Republican senators today to make fresh efforts for an agreement with Northern Democrats that might save some of the broad enforcement powers in the civil rights bill.

Atty. Gen. Brownell made it clear in a television broadcast the administration wants to retain in the House-passed bill now before the Senate at least limited federal sanctions to enforce school integration and other civil rights.

The attorney general said in a broadcast recorded with Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) he would not favor any compromise aimed at "taking away or modifying civil rights that are guaranteed to all of our citizens by the Constitution." The broadcast was filmed for Upstate New York stations.

Amendment Offered

Nevertheless, White House aides were reported to be urging Senate Republicans to try again for a meeting of minds with Northern Democrats that might stave off a major defeat for civil rights supporters. This could come this week if the Senate adopts the Anderson-Aiken amendment to the pending bill.

Sens. Anderson (D-NM) and Aiken (R-VT) have sponsored an amendment to wipe out a section which would authorize federal intervention in the schools and other areas. Its adoption would confine the bill's enforcement powers to the narrow field of voting rights.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, temporarily abandoned attempts last week to draft a substitute for the Anderson-Aiken proposal. Northern Democrats said then he was offering too soft a compromise to Southern opponents of the measure.

Talk Of Compromise

There was some talk of a compromise that might retain a portion of the section that would authorize individuals to take directly to the federal courts cases in which they claimed they were threatened with or had been denied the right to vote.

This would permit the bypassing of state courts, but would not authorize the attorney general to intervene.

There were some indications that Southern opponents would not fight too hard against such a proposal, since its adoption still would leave the measure confined to the field of voting rights.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said in an interview he thinks opponents "have the votes to eliminate the entire section." This view seemed sustained by polls and other indicators of Senate sentiment.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A Q 6 5 3 2 ♣K Q J 8 4 3 2 7 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 club Pass 1 diamond Pass

1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass

2 no trump Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Two diamonds. The length of your diamond suit is not sufficient justification for a jump rebid, which in our methods is forcing. While two diamonds is admittedly an underbid, a jump to three would be a distinct overbid.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠K 10 9 6 4 3 2 ♣J 10 3 ♠K Q 6 4

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass

2 clubs Pass 2 hearts Pass

3 no trump Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—With a void in diamonds we would not relish a no trump contract and would recommend a bid of four spades. This holding in the circuit makes a more or less self-sustaining alternate call to four clubs, which we might be inclined to try if we had an honor in the suit.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠K Q 10 9 6 2 ♠A Q 7 5 ♠10 7 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 club Pass 1 spade Pass

2 clubs Pass 2 hearts Pass

3 no trump Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—With a void in diamonds we would not relish a no trump contract and would recommend a bid of four spades. This holding in the circuit makes a more or less self-sustaining alternate call to four clubs, which we might be inclined to try if we had an honor in the suit.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠K 10 6 2 7 3 ♠A 8 6 4 2 ♠A K

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 club Pass 1 spade Pass

2 clubs Pass 2 hearts Pass

3 no trump Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Three spades. While your values are a game effort at no trump a further exploratory bid may be made at no cost. Partner might have a four card spade holding which he temporarily suppressed in favor of showing the heart stopper. Your bid will offer him all sorts of chances.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠A Q 6 5 ♠K Q 9 ♠A J 5 2 10 4

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 club Pass 1 club Pass

2 no trump Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Double again. Even though partner was unable to make a free bid, you should not abandon this hand, which contains 16 points in high cards. A bid of two diamonds is not recommended for the double might result in a late leave-in by partner, which could prove profitable.

Q. 6—As South, both sides vulnerable, you hold:

♠A 7 4 2 ♠A K 8 6 4 ♠J 6 ♠3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 diamond Pass 2 clubs Pass

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. There is no action that you can take with safety. Against an open bidding and an adversary who has been able to respond at the level of two, it is extremely risky to reach for an eight trick contract with a hand that may well produce no more than four tricks. If the bidding dies prematurely it will be true enough for you to consider taking action.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠A 6 4 ♠A Q J 10 7 5 ♠K 8 4 ♠A

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass

2 clubs Pass 2 hearts Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Our own preference is for a rebid of merely two hearts, which is to be sure somewhat of an understatement, and yet a jump to three hearts would be a shade too aggressive. There is no need to press when partner has made a free bid and therefore intends to make some move toward game. On the next round, South will be in a position comfortably to make a delayed jump.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠A Q 7 6 5 ♠K 10 7 5 ♠K 8 4 ♠A

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 club Pass 1 club Pass

2 clubs Pass 2 hearts Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. Even if partner does not wish to play for less than game, your hand is worth 20 points in support of hearts. Remember that a jump to three hearts would permit partner to pass.

Six Traffic Deaths Boost Md. Toll To 283 For 1957

[By The Associated Press]
Six persons died in Maryland highway accidents during the week ending Saturday, July 21, boosting the State's traffic toll for the year to 283, six more than were killed during the same period of 1956.

Three of the fatalities, in two separate wrecks, were soldiers stationed at the Army Proving Ground, Aberdeen.

One of the soldiers driving on a revoked license died in a two-car head-on collision on the Susquehanna River Bridge. The same wreck Saturday fatally injured another and sent four to the hospital.

The dead: Sgt. I.C. Daniel C. Hickman, 35, who police said was driving on a license revoked three days ago. He was driver of a car which collided with another vehicle containing five Negroes from Davidson, N. C., about a quarter mile from the north toll booth on the bridge. Jack Johnson Jr., 6, Negro, Davidson, N. C., a passenger in the other car involved in the bridge collision. He died in Harford Memorial Hospital where his father, mother and two others in the car were hospitalized. The senior Johnson, 38, later was transferred to Perry Point Veterans Hospital where he remained on the critical list today.

Specialist 3.C. Donald J. Klemis, 29, New Kensington, Pa., stationed at Aberdeen, driver of a car which went out of control and turned over Saturday east of Baltimore.

Specialist 2.C. Kenneth Wood, 28, Princeton, W. Va., stationed at Aberdeen, a passenger in Klemis' car.

Ray Lawrence Walsh, Severna Park, struck and killed by a car Saturday on Maryland 2 at Jones Station, Anne Arundel County.

Earle Bradford Stradley, 31, Laurel, died on the operating table at Prince Georges General Hospital after his car collided with an ambulance on Maryland 216 in Howard County, one half mile east of U.S. 29.

Ex-Jurist Charges C Of C Letter 'False'

COLONIAL BEACH, Va., July 21 (AP) — A retired judge and former member of the House of Delegates said today he has advised Govs. Stanley of Virginia and McKeldin of Maryland that there is widespread opposition to Maryland licensing of gambling and liquor piers on the beachfront here.

James O. Heflin, a former Hopewell jurist, said he has written the two state chief executives that many of his fellow townsfolk resent the letter drafted by the local Chamber of Commerce board of directors to the Maryland Legislative Council in the controversy.

He charged today that the Chamber letter endorsing the three Maryland-sanctioned piers here is a "false letter in its foundation."

Heflin said he informed the two governors in his letter sent during the weekend that the local Chamber has not taken any official action of endorsement in the matter and "certain aspersions cast on them are not worthy of any notice on their part."

'Flu Sweeps Thule

COPENHAGEN, Monday, July 22 (AP) — More than 300 U.S. airmen at Thule Air Force Base in north-west Greenland have been stricken by influenza, Danish authorities in Godthaab reported today.

Sen. Butler Critical Of Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP) — Sen. Butler (R-Md.) said today the Supreme Court, in recent decisions affecting international affairs, "internal subversion and congressional authority, has shown a disregard for classic legal principles."

He referred in a statement to what he called the court's "abnormal emphasis upon sociological and ideological matters" and said that "if these troublesome decisions are to be righted, the Congress must act."

Butler, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said that under the Constitution, "the Congress has the power and the implicit duty to correct any excesses, omissions or errors of the Supreme Court."

However, he cautioned against "ill-conceived legislative activity." This, he said, might add to "uncertainty on the part of the American people who have already lost much confidence in the Supreme Court."

Skelton Family Blessed By Pope

VATICAN CITY, July 21 (AP) — Pope Pius XII received Hollywood comedian Red Skelton and his family in private audience today. A Vatican source said the Pontiff talked mostly to the comedian's 9-year-old son, who doctors say has less than a year to live. Skelton, his wife and two children are on a tour to permit the son, Richard, to see as much of the world as possible before his condition becomes too critical. He is suffering from leukemia, cancer of the blood.

The Pope blessed the Skelton family, and asserted the blessing was "particularly directed" at Richard "in the hope that he'll be able to overcome happily this difficult period."

Hit-Run Boat Hits Side Of Mayflower II

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP) — A hit-and-run pleasure craft struck the side of the Mayflower II at its Hudson River pier today.

The sturdy oak hull of the sailing ship was not damaged. None of the 30 visitors aboard at the time was injured. The replica of the original Mayflower is on exhibit here.

Police said witnesses had identified the pleasure boat as the Big Pebble, out of Miami Beach, Fla. The 75-foot craft pulled away from the Mayflower II after the accident and headed downstream. Harbor squad police had orders to intercept it.

Later, however, Mayflower officials said they did not want to press charges against the pleasure boat, and the police search was called off.

Here's how the First Federal Savings & Loan Association operates

The money that you and other savers bring into this association is lent out to qualified families in the community to help them own homes on a monthly repayable loan plan. Through the moderate interest charged on these safe, secured home loans, you receive a worthwhile return for the use of your savings.

Thus, a chain of events is begun that circulates the home loan money throughout the community. First, it goes to the contractor and skilled tradesmen who built the home; or in the case of an existing home, to the family that sold it, who will need the money to find another home.

From them, it goes into the pockets of the butcher, the baker, the shoemaker, and so on. The money is spent for all the goods and services a family needs and, in this way a good many people receive benefits from the original loan.

Finally, these folks bring a portion of the dollars back to our Savings and Loan Association in the form of savings and to the banks in other financial transactions.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 21 — (INS) — Cornel Wilde has received an offer from Ponti Gerosi to be in Gina Lollobrigida's first picture after the birth of her baby, with the American sounding title, "Anne Of Brooklyn." With a title like that, it's not surprising they want an American actor in the line-up. The other star is Vittorio De Sica, the Italian glamor boy who will also direct.

Gina is expecting her baby momentarily but doesn't expect to go to work for two months, which would be around September 1st. That's where the hitch is for Cornel. He expects to start his own picture "Arrows In The Sun" about that time.

However, he hasn't said "no" to Lollo's movie — and my bet is he arranges his schedule to make it.

All during the illness of Humphrey Bogart, Harry Cohn refused to cast "The Good Shepherd" because that was the one picture Bogie wanted to do. Laurence Bacall has told me many times how much she appreciated Harry's discussing the picture with Bogie as if Columbia were waiting for him, when everyone knew this could never be on the Bogart schedule.

Now the picture is up for discussion again, and Glenn Ford will play the lead instead of going to England for "The Notorious Tenant" as his last picture for the studio. "The Good Shepherd" will follow immediately after "The Sheep Man" which Glenn will do at MGM following his current lead in "Cowboy" for Harry Cohn.

The exciting "marriage" of Fox West theatres and International Telemeter Corporation (meaning the large group of movie theatres and pay TV) is the happy culmination of many years of work and effort on the part of Carl Lessorman.

Since 1949, when Carl severed relations with both Paramount and U. A. film companies to devote himself to "Pay TV," he has been tirelessly working toward this result. For many years the theatre exhibitors were dead set against the idea of pay TV and were fighting it hammer and tong. Can we any longer doubt that "pay TV" is practically in our living rooms since the merger announcement of Elmer Rhoden (president of National Theatres and chairman of the board of Fox West Coast) and Louis A. Novins, vice-president of International Telemeter Corporation last week?

Liberace told me he didn't know about the brutal beating of his mother until after his show. The news was kept from him. He intends to leave no stone unturned until he finds out the names of the assailants.

Mrs. Liberace was kept under sedation and was too much in shock to be able to have X-rays, but it is believed she may have some broken ribs and severe internal injuries. Lee says his whole family will have the protection of body guards.

"I can only feel these brutes had a grudge against me," said Liberace, "but I don't want to say who I think it is. It's horrible that they would take their revenge out on my mother who never hurt anyone."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: MGM story head Kenneth McKenna's secretary, Martha Thorsen, was quietly married in Ojai last weekend to Mack Parsons (no relation). He's an eastern executive.

Perc Westmore got out of a hospital bed at Hollywood Presbyterian to cut Jane Wyman's hair. She has her glamor look back (thank goodness!) and the bangs she wore which were so cute.

Nancy Sinatra, one of the most attractive women in this town or any town, and Hugh O'Brian an Encore twosome to hear Matt Dennis.

Paulette Goddard and Eric Maria Remarque, who have made very few appearances since they arrived in town, having a very quiet dinner at the Bublikhi.

Then rub a sparing amount of pomade or brilliantine between your palms and work it into your scalp with your fingertips. Next, give every strand a shine-up treatment by polishing it between your palms. Now, with light strokes, brush waves and curls into place.

Congress And The Nation's Purse

Backlog of unexpended funds appropriated by past Congresses and beyond the scope of the present budget has been estimated at $70 billion, close to the Eisenhower budget proposal for fiscal 1958.

It is this situation that former President Hoover had in mind at San Francisco when he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors recently that Congress "has lost control of the purse."

If there is concern over the effect of government spending under a $72 billion budget, then the theoretical possibility of federal departments in any one fiscal year pouring out an additional $70 billion in federal funds should compound the apprehension.

Mr. Hoover declares that government spending is a major factor in "the inflation movement now going on" and that it probably has reduced the purchasing power of the dollar by four or five cents in recent months.

That includes not only the dollars the government spends but every dollar a taxpayer earns and the dollars of which he must give more and more in federal taxes if the monetary unit continues to lose ground.

A move has been made at Washington, through the urging of the Hoover Commission, to help restore to Congress control of the federal purse. It is a measure, approved by the Senate unanimously and now before the House, that would provide annual accrued expenditure budgeting. This would limit appropriations to a single year, even for long range projects, and require annual review of all spending.

It is reasonable to expect the review from year to year would result in federal savings. A saving of only 1 per cent on $70 billion would be $700 million annually. That's almost $5 per capita.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Reducing The Infantry

The President's decision to reduce the armed forces by 100,000 is an indication, not that war is not possible, but rather that sooner or later, a revision of all ideas about military operations is necessary, as it always is after a great war. The rise of the airplane to primacy as a conveyor of bombs of various sorts reduces the value of the infantry which has traditionally been the backbone of any armed force.

The foot soldier throughout history has been the most essential combatant and even in countries which prided themselves on their navies, the greatest honors were paid to infantrymen because it was the foot soldier who fought the final battles and occupied the territories. It is hardly possible to say, after the Korean and Indo-China Wars, that the infantry is useless. What it is possible to say is that other weapons have become more deadly and that no nation can afford to maintain all the service arms now available. As long as the greatest cost is the atom and hydrogen bombs, budgets cannot be devised to carry all the other costs without bankrupting a people.

This problem applies equally to the Russians as to ourselves. When the British were at their height they were able to use native troops for infantry, such as the Gurkhas and the Sikhs, who did wonderful fighting under British officers. The French employed Senegalese and Annamites and others and had fine armies. But today, it is impossible to employ colonial troops because they have all gone nationalist and therefore all armies will have to calculate expenses on home costs.

The reduction of the armed forces and their rationalization is not a subject for amateurs and I am not attempting here to lay down any laws about what should be done. It will probably take six generals, four admirals, and the entire Air Force, with a couple of courts-martial thrown in before we actually know what kind of an armed force we require. Meanwhile the taxpayer is getting very tired of having so large a share of his earnings go to those who are really unsure of their own judgments.

But this needs to be remembered: during the past two wars, that is World War I and World War II, we had time to get ready. During World War I, our principal associates were powerful nations, Great Britain, France and Japan. During World War II, our factories got going in 1938 and we did not effectively enter the war until 1942.

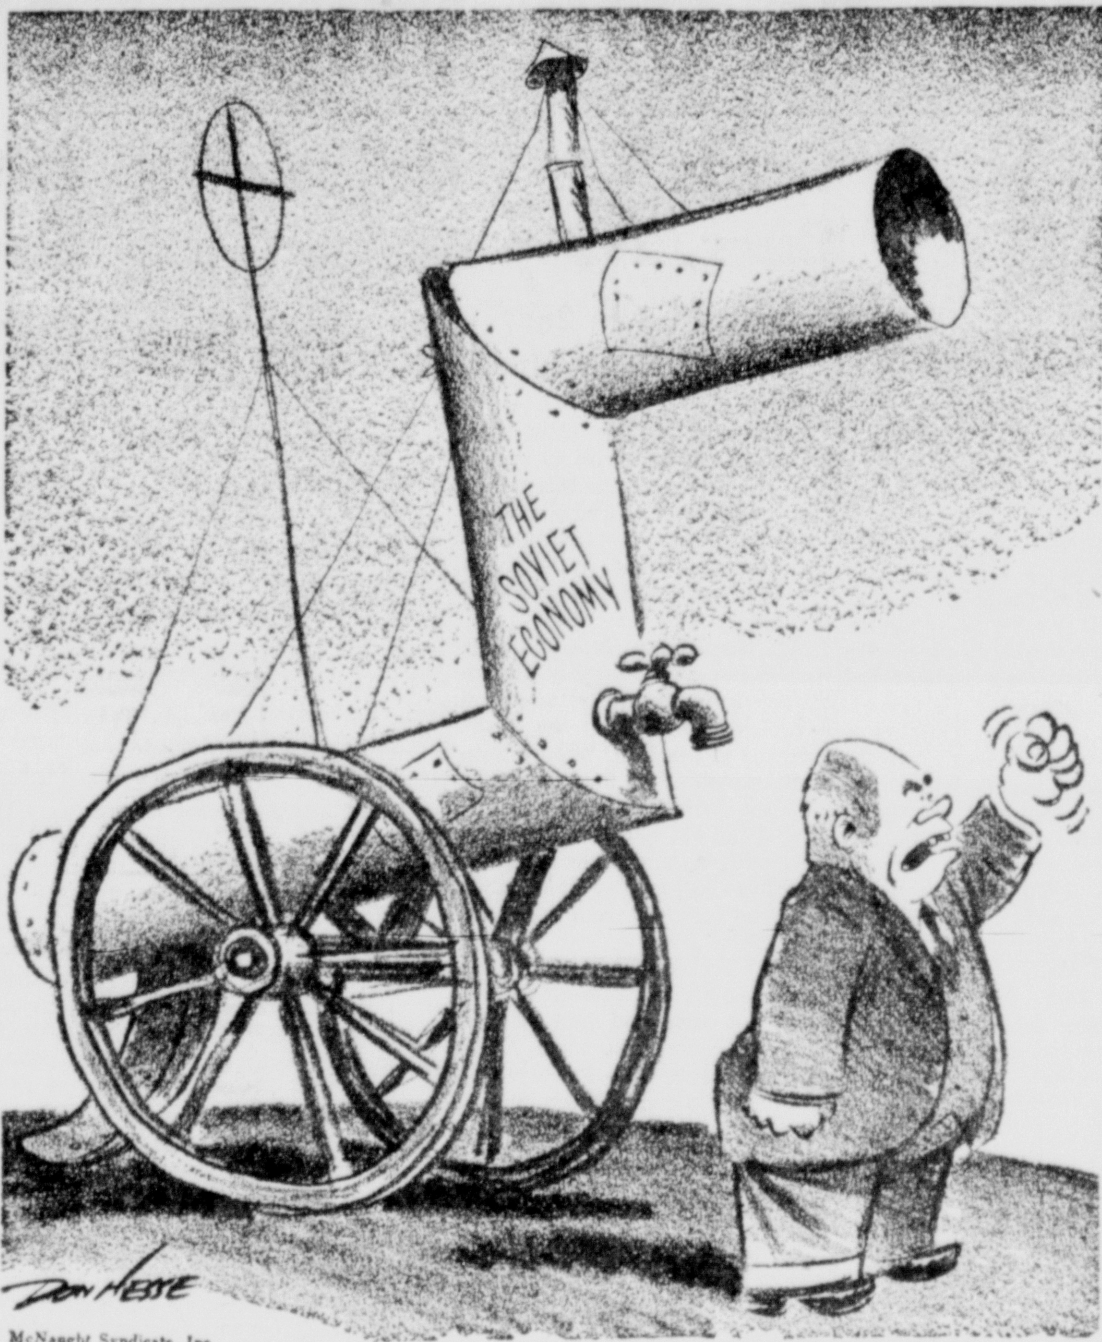

This convenient interlude is not available to us now. When war comes, we shall be in it within a few minutes and the decisive air fight will take place within a few hours. That is so, if we believe what we are told, which may or may not be so. Also, if we believe everything we hear, we shall all be dead, so what difference does it make? But if it is not so, we still may have to fight. And who can say for sure where or how we shall have to fight?

Between wars is a very difficult time for any government, particularly when the enemy is the savage Bolsheviks who are debased morally and seek to build an empire that will encompass the human race. All the controversy between army and air force, between profligate soldiers and economical politicians, are no more than natural selfish considerations. Basically, it is the product of the uncertainty as to what is to be done that can produce the best defense without admitting that nobody really knows.

The British have faced the problem very practically. They cannot defend themselves at all, if bombs are used in the next war. So they are fixing the bombs for peace and are reducing their military expenditures to what a second or third class military power can afford. The rest is up to the United States. France does not matter and paradoxically will have to be defended by West Germany which is again becoming an enormous military power. Soviet Russia is as worried as we are because any country can make hydrogen bombs and it is impossible to forecast the future in Asia.

So there is everywhere fear, uncertainty and confusion. The greatest menace to the United States is that a drunkard heads Soviet Russia and nobody can foretell what a drunkard will do when he is drunk.

Zhukov Argument Hard To Meet With Subtlety

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There was something characteristically human in President Eisenhower's bit of reminiscence concerning his talks with General Zhukov in 1945. It raises this question: must a man who happens to be discussing current affairs during a social evening with someone from another country keep on a level of politeness and courtesy and refrain from citing facts that would reflect on the other man's government, especially if the other individual is an important diplomatic or military representative of that very government?

As told in the press conference here this week, the President admitted he was somewhat flustered when he was arguing with Zhukov on the subject of Communism. The two men had just emerged from a joint military operation that ended World War II, and they spent a lot of time together in Berlin. Here is how the President tells the story:

"I must say that during the years that I knew him (Zhukov) I had a most satisfactory acquaintance and friendship with him. I think he was a confirmed Communist. We had many long discussions about our respective doctrines. I think one evening we had a three-hour conversation. We tried each to explain to the other just what our systems meant, to the individual, and I was very hard put to it when he insisted that their system appealed to the idealistic, and we completely to the materialistic, and I had a very tough time trying to defend our position, because he said:

"You tell a person he can do as he pleases, he can act as he pleases, he can do anything. Everything that is selfish in man you appeal to him, and we tell him that he must sacrifice for the state."

"Zhukov said: 'We have a very hard program to sell.' So what I am getting at is, I believe he was very honestly convinced of the soundness of their doctrine and was an honest man."

But the reporters at the press conference felt that this might leave an impression that the President had been devoid of arguments against Communism, so James Reston of the "New York Times" asked: "Do you want to leave the inference that it is difficult to defend the proposition that Democracy is a more idealistic system than Communism?" To this Mr. Eisenhower replied by explaining further Zhukov's claims about idealism and "sacrifice for the state—giving to the state," and then the President added this comment:

"In other words, he (Zhukov) takes the attitude that they don't force this contribution, they are teaching a people to support that contribution. So, when you run up against that kind of thing—look, Mr. Reston, I think you could run into people you would have a hard time convincing that the sun is hot and the earth is round. I don't say that I don't believe it. I am merely saying that against that kind of a belief you run against arguments that almost leave you breathless, you don't know how to meet them."

Mr. Eisenhower is a kindly man and, even when shocked by mis-statements, doesn't speak words of criticism to persons he is meeting socially, especially in the diplomatic world. He doesn't question their motives or imply they are supporting scoundrels in government. Theoretically, Mr. Eisenhower might have said:

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Supreme Court is upsetting more plays than the Oklahoma line-backers.

Now the fuzz hears it cannot quizzize suspects after juggling. You can put the finger on a hokey. But not the whole hand.

There will be no more charades in the goldfish room. The cops can put away their firemen's hats. They're not going to use the hose anymore.

From now on the fuzz must be as polite as a fat man's tailor.

The mouthpieces are responsible for the delicate treatment of the delinquent muzzlers. A good lawyer can close the restaurant if there's lumps in the mashed potatoes.

Chief Devery said there was more law in the end of a hickory stick than in a college. And you graduated quicker.

It's as different now as hats in a barrel. The cops roll out the red carpet, put the lamp in the window, barbecue the fatted calf and turn the other cheek with the quid in it.

From now on the status of officer and suspect will be of physician and clientele. With ambulance service.

Firm Which Tried To Bribe Senator Profits From Votes On Natural Gas

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — If you read carefully what goes on in Wall Street and compare it with what happens in certain Congressional committees in Washington, you get an amazing chain of events.

On Monday, July 8, the stock of the Superior Oil Company was listless. Only 200 shares were traded.

On Tuesday, July 9, the House Interstate Commerce Committee approved by a narrow margin the natural gas bill, which will increase gas rates to consumers by about $800,000,000 a year.

That same day, Superior Oil's stock galvanized into action. Either there was a leak from the committee or else very fast work after the committee voted. The stock shot up in value $30 a share. A total of 21,000 shares were traded.

Thursday, July 11, Superior Oil shot up again. This time 53,000 shares were traded. Other people had got wise. The price shot up another $40 per share.

Friday, July 12, showed even greater gains. The price advanced another $90 per share. Fifty thousand shares were traded.

Monday, July 15, topped them all. The price of Superior Oil went up $120, 42,000 shares traded, closing at a record high of $2,000 per share. After that profit-taking set in, the stock leveled off, though Superior Oil is still the highest priced stock on Wall Street.

Behind Superior Oil
Now let's check back and see just who and what Superior Oil is. If you'll check your memory, Superior Oil is headed by Howard Keck, the man whose lobbyists tried to bribe Sen. Francis Case of South Dakota with $2,500 cash during the natural gas debate last year. For this attempted bribery, Elmer Patman and John Neff were fined $2,500 each but never went to jail. They were given one year suspended sentences by Ike's newly appointed judge, Joseph McGarraghy, and they were convicted not for trying to bribe a Senator, but for failing to register under the lobbying act. The corporation was also fined $10,000.

But Howard Keck, whom these two lobbyists represented was not tried. His money was involved, but Attorney General Brownell did not prosecute him. Keck had given $5,000 by check January 10 to the Eisenhower dinner. This was right in the middle of the gas battle. The check was accepted and cashed.

Senator McClellan's investigating committee, which has not hesitated to embarrass various other people, did not want to embarrass Mr. Keck or President Eisenhower. It did not go into the matter of his $5,000 check, though I personally delivered a photostat of the check to McClellan's committee.

But if you read the stock-market returns, you can now understand why Keck could afford to give $5,000 to the Eisenhower dinner, plus an attempted $2,500 to Senator Case, plus more to some other candidates.

The Secret Vote

The vote of the House Interstate Commerce Committee which approved the natural gas bill and boosted the profits of Superior Oil is secret. No one is supposed to know how the Congressmen voted. However, I have the score card of their secret vote, and the folks back home who elect them may be surprised. Here are some of the surprises:

Democratic surprise: Leo O'Brien of Albany, N. Y., which needs natural gas, voted with Superior Oil and the gas companies.

Republican surprise: Charles Wolverton of Camden, N. J., representing an area seriously dependent on gas, voted with Superior Oil. The bill will cost housewives and factories in his district millions of dollars.

Other Republican surprises: Alvin Bush and Joseph Carrigg, both of Pennsylvania, voted with Superior Oil; also William Springer of Illinois, Joseph O'Hara of Minnesota, and Robert Hale of Maine—all states badly needing gas.

Hale came within a handful of votes of being defeated last year partly because Maine residents resented his vote for the gas-oil companies. John Bennett of Michigan, a state where gas is badly needed, plus John Beamer of Indiana, also in need of gas ducked out of voting. They were absent.

K. C. Star Settles

The Kansas City Star, following conviction for violating the anti-trust laws, has paid the Kansas City News-Press, in the neighborhood of $100,000, and is negotiating settlements with other papers in Missouri and Johnson County, Kansas.

Garrett Smalley, publisher of the News-Press, which suffered loss of advertising because of the Star's monopolistic tactics, refused comment. Asked whether he still contemplated a previously planned $1,000,000 suit against the Star, he said his plans had changed. He would not bring the suit.

The Justice Department, meanwhile, plans to bring a civil suit against the Star shortly after August 3 when U. S. District Judge Richard Duncan returns to the bench. This is a follow-up on the criminal case.

Meanwhile, the Star has been negotiating with a group in Michigan and a group in Oklahoma with a view to selling its radio and TV stations. These came under fire during the criminal anti-trust proceedings for contributing to monopoly. There have also been reports that the Star might sell its morning paper, the Times.

Any criminal conviction makes it automatic under FCC rules that an owner of a radio or TV station gives up his FCC license. The Star's criminal conviction also gave proven court evidence to smaller competing newspapers by which they could bring damage.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

The fool that willingly provokes a woman
Has made himself another evil angel.
And a new hell, to which all other torments
Are but mere pastime.
Beaumont and Fletcher

The interest in exotic foods seemed intense. Ever since I mentioned food shops and restaurants offering such items as fried bees, roasted grasshoppers, buffalo burgers and kangaroo tail soup, I have been besieged by subscribers asking for the locale of these places. Idaho is justly famous for its potatoes, Maine for its lobsters, Long Island for its duck and Cape Cod for its oysters but I wonder from which section come the most tasty grasshoppers. I have heard it is Utah. If such is the case, one of the eateries specializing in quaint and exotic food should list on its menu: "Roasted Utah Grasshopper Salad." Or "Fried Utah Grasshoppers A La Mode."

WAGER

About two months ago I bet a friend the Brooklyn Dodgers would never move to Los Angeles but that the Chicago Cubs would. That is, that the Chicago National League franchise would be given to Los Angeles. What do you think are my chances of winning this wager? My friend gave me three to one!

BRIGHT REMARK

Ethel Barrymore is said to have observed: "A socialite in Los Angeles is anybody who graduated from high school." Those reporting this apparently rate it a witty remark. It is merely a display of ignorance. There are many fine old families in Los Angeles whose ancestors settled in California centuries ago. Their social distinction is equal to that of the first families of New England, New York or Virginia. Ethel Barrymore is a capable actress but is not possessed of an unusual sense of humor. The real wit of her family was her father, Maurice Barrymore.

SWIMMER

You are, of course, familiar with the details of the historic steamboat race on the Mississippi from New Orleans to St. Louis between the Natchez and the Robert E. Lee. But do you know about the feat of John V. Symund? He swam, without leaving the water, from St. Louis, Mo., to Caruthersville in 89 hours and 48 minutes. That was in 1940. The distance between the two places is 292 miles. And those British Channel swimmers—and the fellows who have swum from the Battery, New York Harbor, to Coney Island have the nerve to call themselves "long distance swimmers."

GET IT RIGHT

The perennially popular song titled "Casey Jones" was written by Wallace Saunders, a friend and fellow employee of the heroic engineer. Saunders did not copy-right the song. T. Laurence-Seibert and Eddie Newton, two railroad men, revised the Saunders version in 1909 and copyrighted it. This new version was introduced and popularized by the Three Leighton Brothers at the Ship Cafe, Santa Monica, Calif. The Leighton Brothers also popularized the modern version of the song titled "Frankie and Johnnie."

LAWYERS

Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" was written in the 16th century. It is said to be based on an actual happening of the 14th century. So as the heroine of the tale was Portia, a woman lawyer, we must assume feminine legal lights have been permitted to practice in Europe for from three to five hundred years. Women lawyers were not permitted to appear in court in this country until 1869. There are now about 6,000 active women lawyers in the United States. I have often hoped to have a chance to view a battle of wits between a green-eyed, red-haired woman lawyer acting for the defense and a blue-eyed brunette woman lawyer acting as the district attorney. Who do you think would be the winner? I am inclined to favor the blue-eyed brunette. A very sharp type of femininity.

An Australian aboriginal tribe eats ants—science item. Golly, what a shock it must be to the little critters to discover THEY are the picnic lunch!

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A star came to New York between pictures with a wad of $50,000 burning a hole in his pocket. Problem: Should he buy a small piece of a pal's new musical revue, or get the little woman the mink coat for which she had been yearning? He compromised by buying into the show but promising his wife two coats if it proved to be a hit.

After the tryout, the star sent his wife this wire: "I've got bad news for you. Your coats closed in New Haven last night."

"What's your young brother wailing so dismally about?" demanded a father. The older son explained, "He's just crying because I'm eating my pie and won't give him any."

"Is his pie finished?" inquired Pa. "It is," said the boy, "and he wailed while I was eating that, too."

Las Vegas, insists Joe E. Lewis, is a community where hostesses on approaching planes caution, "Please fasten your money belts."

City Swelters As Temperature Climbs To 100

Sunday Hottest Day Since 1954

Cumberland sweltered yesterday during the hottest day of the year when the sun baked residents to the tune of 100 degrees.

With the official thermometer hovering at its highest mark since July 15, 1954, when the temperature reached 102 degrees, thousands of the community's residents sought out area swimming havens and picnic grounds.

Nearly 1,000 persons used the Constitution Park pool yesterday and several thousand others sought refuge from the burning sun in the tree-lined glens of the park's picnic grounds.

13 Days Without Rain

Yesterday also marked the 13th consecutive day the area has been without rain. The last official record of rainfall at the Constitution Park weather post was 0.23 inch of rain on July 8. Only 0.27 inch of rain has been recorded for the month of July.

Officially the temperature struck 100 degrees at the park weather station, with the low for the 24-hour period recorded at 63 degrees.

Downtown, the unofficial but accurate Times-News recording thermometer showed readings of 100 degrees from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. At 3 o'clock the mercury was just a shade over the 100 mark.

Robert R. Golden, weather observer here, said July of last year had rain on 19 days, with the highest temperature 92 degrees.

Baltimore reported 103-degrees heat yesterday—the highest reading in 16 years. The mercury there was only one degree shy of the all time mark for the day, set during the drought of 1930.

Temperature ranged in the 90s or above throughout the state. The Weather Bureau said it was 96 at Salisbury, 95 at Hagerstown, and 92 at Annapolis.

No Sunstroke Reports

Despite the huge crowds at beaches, pools, rivers and elsewhere seeking the cooling relief of the waters no drownings or sunstroke cases were reported.

State Police in the tri-state area said last night, however, that traffic was not above normal for weekend travel.

The continued dry weather, meanwhile, brought fresh warnings from the State Department of Forests and Parks about the dangers of fires. Dorchester and Charles counties already have been listed as "critical" fire hazard areas.

No forest fires in Western Maryland have been reported, although Cumberland firemen have been plagued for several days with small brush fires in the city limits, especially in the picnic areas of Constitution Park.

More hot weather apparently is in store today. The forecast said it would be mostly sunny and continued hot with a chance of a few scattered thundershowers in the extreme western part of the state. Today's high temperatures are expected to range in the upper 90s.

Events Planned At North End

A wheels parade, dances, craft work and a winner roast will be featured this week at North End Playground.

Children at the ground will continue swimming lessons at the park pool. Those who did not attend last week's classes may do so this week.

A special craft class will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. A dance for sub-teens will be held from 7:30 to 9 p. m. and for teen-agers from 9 to 10:30 p. m.

A wiener and marshmallow roast will be held Thursday at 12:30 p. m. at the playground. Friday's schedule includes a wheels-on-parade at 7:15 p. m. followed by movies at dusk.

Winners at last week's hat show were Joan Green, largest; Janie Runion, smallest; Mary Chorpennig, prettiest; Becky Topper, most unusual; Susan Wadsworth, most original, and Stanley Kline, funniest.

Former Road Salesman Still Does Plenty Of Traveling, But It's All Up And Down

Lloyd Mullin Runs Elevator 16 Years

By CHARLES H. KELLY News Staff Writer

A local man who was a traveling salesman for many years decided to abandon that line of work and stay put.

However in his present job he continues to travel extensively. He's the elevator operator at the Allegany County Court House.

On August 1, Lloyd Mullin, of 423 Beall Street, will have completed 16 years at the controls of the elevator which takes passengers to the four floors of the building.

He is constantly on the move at the sound of the buzzer. In his daily routine, Mr. Mullin is always genial, in good spirits, and likes to chat with everyone to keep up with the latest news.

When retirement was mentioned, he said he would rather "keep on going" at his job. Although he never kept tabs on the number of miles he has traveled by elevator, it has been "quite a few." During the past few days he has been keeping a running account of his "going up" trips and found he made an average of about 130, which apparently is more or less a dull day.

It has not always been smooth sailing on the job since a few times the elevator failed to function and he has been trapped momentarily between floors.

A native of Ellerslie and the son of a railroad, Mr. Mullin received his early education at Union Street and Centre Street schools here.

Later he attended Tri-State Business College and became a bookkeeper at the Tri-State Paper Company here "way back" about 30 or 35 years ago.

After working at an office desk for a while Mr. Mullin went out on the road as a salesman. In due time he decided to go to work for the Eagle Paper Company of Richmond, Va., and then to the Williamsport (Pa.) Paper Company before getting a job with the Antietam Paper Company of Hagerstown. He was employed by that company about 11 years.

In his travels through Maryland, West Virginia and part of Pennsylvania, he sold merchants such items as wrapping paper, stationery, twine and printers' supplies.

When he began operating the Court House elevator he continued working part time with the Hagerstown company but finally gave up that job.

Aside from operating the elevator, Mr. Mullin delivers mail to the various offices in the building and also keeps close check on the soft drink and "serve yourself" cookie concession maintained by Walter Herboldsheimer, newsstand manager at the Post Office here. Mr. Mullin also is in charge of the weight machine.

He attends the Methodist Church and is a member of the IOOF, Ali Ghan Temple, Cumberland Consistory Scottish Rite, and United Commercial Travelers.

His wife, Mrs. Minnie L. (Little) Mullin died this past April and he has been keeping house himself.

You'd never guess what he plans to do on his vacation this summer. A trip by auto through the countryside is what he is looking forward to, and he hopes to take a tour through the Washington area to see the sights and visit relatives. Sort of a busman's holiday.

Cement Strike Slows Projects

BALTIMORE, July 21 (AP)—The nationwide cement strike has halted construction projects throughout Maryland but contractors on the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel and two roads projects have found an emergency supply which will keep them going.

C. W. Williams, contractor for the Jones Fall Expressway in Baltimore City and the Baltimore County Beltway, said he had located 12 carloads of cement which are on their way from Detroit. He says he has been promised three more carloads.

There also is cement available for continuing work on the tunnel beneath Baltimore Harbor, but building of approaching roads has slowed to half speed and soon may have to stop according to the contractor.

The Mayor and City Council shall have authority to raise the tax limitation for general purposes not to exceed $1.50 for each $100 of assessable property.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, last week reported that 12,734 citizens were qualified to vote on the issue as of July 1, and that over 20 new voters have been added to the rolls this month.

New registrations will be accepted through August 5 at 5 p. m., when the books will be closed until after the referendum.

Election Notice Appears Today

The official Notice of Election on the referendum scheduled August 13 is printed on Page 9 of today's Cumberland News.

The notice points out that polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. and lists the polling places.

The proposed amendment reads: The Mayor and City Council shall have authority to raise the tax limitation for general purposes not to exceed $1.50 for each $100 of assessable property.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, last week reported that 12,734 citizens were qualified to vote on the issue as of July 1, and that over 20 new voters have been added to the rolls this month.

New registrations will be accepted through August 5 at 5 p. m., when the books will be closed until after the referendum.

Kiwanis Opens Annual Sunshine Camp Today

The annual Sunshine Camp for deserving children sponsored by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club is ready to open today.

A group of 26 girls will meet at City Hall this morning at 9 o'clock and will be taken to the camp site at the end of McDonald Terrace by members of the Kiwanis Club.

The girls will enjoy a two-week stay at the camp and will return home Saturday, August 3. The group of deserving boys who have been selected to attend the camp will leave Monday, August 5.

Physical examinations were given the girls last week by Dr. W. Royce Hodges, and the girls' teeth were examined by Dr. A. G. Thurman Twigg.

Back for the fourth consecutive year as directors of the camp will be Mr. and Mrs. William Donahue. Mr. Donahue is guidance director at Allegany High School.

Counselors who will assist the Donahues will be Miss Doris Koener and Miss Sally Runion. Cooking at the camp will be done by Mrs. Christian Burns and Mrs. Bertha Wetzel who are employed as cooks at Cresapton Junior High School. Rachel Kidwell will be laundress at the camp.

A number of improvements and repairs on the equipment has been completed and an American Flag has been donated to the camp by Cresap Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A varied program has been planned for the girls, including handicraft, games and swimming. Special programs also have been planned for the evenings during their stay at the camp.

The annual camp is the chief project of the local Kiwanis Club and is operated and maintained through contributions by members of the club.

Chairman of the committee in charge of the operation of the camp is Albert D. Darby. Other members include Albert T. Tomko, James W. Bishop, Charles Helmrick, Dr. A. J. Mirkin, Dr. G. A. T. Twigg, John J. Ort, Harry B. Grimes, Salvation Army, Captain Daniel K. Biggs, Marine Captain Daniel V. Molesky, Irving Rosenbaum, James Fortner and Edward Wildes.

The selection of the children to attend the camp was made by Miss Jeannette L. Bonig, executive secretary of the Associated Charities.

Local police are on the lookout for three persons who have been reported missing, including a Cumberland man who has been gone from his home since June 28.

Latest missing reports concern Eleanor Cannon, 36, of 22 Belleview Street, who left her home Saturday at 9:30 p. m. to visit a sister at Jane Frazier Village and has not been seen since. She was wearing a student nurse uniform and is 5 feet, 1 inch tall, weighs 90 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes.

Relatives in the Bowman's Addition area of the city have reported George Watchford, 77, of Baltimore has been missing since Saturday. He is 5 feet, 4 inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, is of slight build, white hair, wearing brown trousers, blue shirt and high black shoes.

Cumberlanders Hurt As Car Overtakes

Driver Remains In Hospital

Two Cumberland persons were injured shortly after Saturday midnight when the car in which they were traveling left the highway and overturned about two miles north of Wellersburg, Pa.

Mrs. Juanita Crabtree, 35, Jane Frazier Village, was admitted to Memorial Hospital here with lacerations on the nose and abrasions on the arm and body. She was released later in the day, attendants said.

Robert Eugene Bobo, 30, of 225 Glenn Street, suffered facial and body lacerations and abrasions of face and forehead. He is a patient at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Trooper T. W. Lutz of the Somerset detachment of Pennsylvania State Police said Bobo was driving south on state Route 160 toward Cumberland when he lost control of the car.

The vehicle left the road and rolled over, being virtually demolished in the accident, he said. Mrs. Crabtree was a passenger in the car, the policeman said.

A Cumberland mother and her 11-month-old daughter were treated at Sacred Heart Hospital Saturday night after a two-car collision in the 800-block of Braddock Road.

Hospital attaches said neither Mrs. Mary Jane Knight, 21, of 206 Aviret Avenue, nor her daughter, Patricia Ann, received serious injuries, sustaining only minor cuts and bruises of the face and head.

Officer James Swann of the City Police Department investigated the accident which occurred about 9:30 p. m. Saturday. He said a car driven by George William Myers, 40, of this city collided with another driven by John Leonard Knight.

Officer Swann said Myers was traveling east when his vehicle struck the left rear of the Knight car, which swerved to the left, struck a guard rail and crossed the highway to hit a utility pole.

In another auto accident Saturday night, Ernest Riggelman, of Route 46, near Fort Ashby, W. Va., was critically injured.

The extent of injuries to Riggelman, who is a patient at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, and details of the accident were not available last night.

It was reported the accident occurred on the cutoff road of Route 220 outside of Keyser.

Technical assistance in planning and carrying out land treatment measures will be provided by the Soil Conservation Service, the Forest Service in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, through the Garrett County Forestry Conservancy District Board, the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, The Maryland Extension Service, the Garrett Soil Conservation District, the Farmers Home Administration, and the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The average annual benefit of the structural measures will be $37,532, and the average annual cost will be $15,459. This is a favorable benefit cost ratio of 2.43 to 1.

The outing will close with dancing in the club house, starting at 9 p. m.

Officials have ordered 1,000 pounds of chicken, which will be prepared under the direction of Earl D. Chaney.

J. Louis Shaffer has been named chairman of the picnic committee. Howard W. Vandegrift, Mr. Chaney, Howard G. Shinholt are co-chairmen.

Members of the committee are Gilbert L. Saaler, Paul H. Morgan, Drose G. Zembower, Owen N. Morris, Calvin G. Carder, J. Wilbur Powell, Charles F. Dicks and William G. Armbruster.

The Cumberland Rotary Club will be host to Horace A. Kottcomp, district governor, at its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Mr. Kottcomp, who will make his initial visit to the local club, is mayor of Chambersburg, Pa., and also operates a construction and building supply company there.

New Plan To Minimize Garrett Flood Damage

(This is the first in a series of articles on the Watershed Work Plan of the Little Youghiogheny River watershed in Garrett County, which it is hoped will minimize the long-standing hazard of flash floods in the Oakland area.)

A five-year plan which got under way July 1 is aimed at controlling flood damage to Oakland and the farmland along Little Youghiogheny River and its principal tributaries.

The Little Youghiogheny River watershed covers an area of 26,275 acres in southern Garrett County, including much productive farmland.

Oakland has been plagued by damaging flash floods for years, and the works of improvement, when completed, are calculated to reduce this destruction to a minimum.

There are three major parts to the plan. It is a coordinated plan consisting of land treatment measures, stream channel improvement work, and floodwater retarding structures.

It is planned to construct six floodwater retarding dams and do 1.6 miles of stream channel improvement work within the five-year period.

All dams are to be of compacted earth fill with vegetated spillways. The first dams planned are those on Wilson Run and its tributaries, since this stream flows directly through the business section of Oakland, and has been directly responsible for major flood damage in the past.

The total installation cost of the project is $624,262. In addition, the people of the watershed will pay for operation and maintenance of the structures, which have a capitalized value of $38,668. The farmers of the watershed will install the land treatment measures at a cost of $206,729.

Oakland and Garrett County together have agreed to pay $40,000 or 15 percent of the shared costs. The Garrett Soil Conservation District will be responsible for operation and maintenance of land treatment measures, of the six floodwater retarding structures, and improvements in the stream channel.

Semi-annual inspections will be made of the structural works. Maintenance and operational work will be done by the employees of Garrett County, the cost of which will be shared equally by the Town of Oakland and the County Commissioners.

About three-fourths of the annual maintenance cost of $1,800 is calculated to be necessary to maintain the floodwater retarding dams, and the balance, $400, to maintain the stream channel improvement.

Technical assistance in planning and carrying out land treatment measures will be provided by the Soil Conservation Service, the Forest Service in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, through the Garrett County Forestry Conservancy District Board, the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, The Maryland Extension Service, the Garrett Soil Conservation District, the Farmers Home Administration, and the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The average annual benefit of the structural measures will be $37,532, and the average annual cost will be $15,459. This is a favorable benefit cost ratio of 2.43 to 1.

The outing will close with dancing in the club house, starting at 9 p. m.

Officials have ordered 1,000 pounds of chicken, which will be prepared under the direction of Earl D. Chaney.

J. Louis Shaffer has been named chairman of the picnic committee. Howard W. Vandegrift, Mr. Chaney, Howard G. Shinholt are co-chairmen.

Members of the committee are Gilbert L. Saaler, Paul H. Morgan, Drose G. Zembower, Owen N. Morris, Calvin G. Carder, J. Wilbur Powell, Charles F. Dicks and William G. Armbruster.

The Cumberland Rotary Club will be host to Horace A. Kottcomp, district governor, at its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Mr. Kottcomp, who will make his initial visit to the local club, is mayor of Chambersburg, Pa., and also operates a construction and building supply company there.

State Officials Begin Study Of Long Drought

Area Communities Limit Water Uses

A study of the drought in Maryland — the first step toward obtaining consideration for federal aid — is being conducted by state agricultural officials.

The continued dry weather has affected farm crops in most Maryland areas, according to Paul E. Nystrom, director of extension at the University of Maryland, and in some instances has caused complete crop failures.

The best relief, all agreed, would be a series of good rains. The Weather Bureau said today would be sunny and hot, with a chance for a few scattered thundershowers in Western Maryland.

The extent of drought damage, agricultural officials said, varies widely, depending on local rainfall and the type of crop grown. Report is Awaited

Early hay crops, small grains and other early harvested crops are not greatly affected by the dry spell, but the lack of rain through July has severely damaged crops.

Late hay and pastures are parched and tobacco areas in Southern Maryland report a reduction in both yield and quality. Field corn and truck crops are damaged in some places.

A more detailed picture of the drought damage may be available tomorrow from the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service.

The state-wide survey and appraisal of local situations will be evaluated by a state committee headed by Leonard C. Burns, Olney, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee; Dr. Nystrom; Ray Smith, Frederick, director of the Farmers' Home Administration for Maryland; and Shirley Ewing, state Civil Defense director.

Some sections of Allegany County are being pinched for water, including part of Barton, Mt. Savage, LaVale and Westernport.

The LaVale Sanitary Commission reported over the weekend that water supplies are running low in the area west of the Footers plant.

Officials warned that water should be used only for essential purposes.

Westernport also placed a ban against non-essential uses of water, saying customers on parts of Westernport Hill and Greene's Addition are without water for about 10 hours of the day.

In Mt. Savage, water officials said an emergency well is being dug to supplement the town's supply which is drawn from two big cisterns.

In Barton, a Fire Department spokesman said the Quality Hill, State Road and German Street sections are without water.

The City of Cumberland, which supplies water to much of the Cumberland metropolitan area, is in an enviable position, as is Lonaconing.

Lake Gordon on Saturday was about two feet below normal, and Lake Koon down 13 inches.

The two dams hold more than a nine-month supply when water is touching the spillways.

The Lonaconing Water Company reported good supplies with water running over Koonitz Reservoir, the Chestertown Reservoir down 10 inches and the Midland dam two inches.

The reservoirs are fed by mountain springs and serve Lonaconing and Midland.

Water officials said the good supply results in part from continuing repairs of leaks in lines and reservoirs.

Dorchester and Charles counties are listed as "critical fire hazard areas" by the State Department of Forests and Parks.

State Forester Henry C. Buckingham said yesterday conditions in the two counties are almost as bad as those of the 1930 drought.

Is Better Here

Almost the entire state is "extremely dry," Buckingham said. Parts of Worcester, Wicomico and Somerset counties are approaching a critical state, he said.

The only exceptions to the general dry conditions are Garrett County and the western section of Allegany County, Buckingham said. There have been scattered rain storms in both areas recently.

Most people have been "cooperating to the fullest extent," Buckingham said, in combating the threat of fire. But he added three or four minor fires, probably caused by matches or cigarettes tossed from cars, have been reported daily.

He warned against throwing cigarettes and matches from cars and starting brush fires outside city limits.

About 1,000 Persons Attend Park Concert

Approximately 1,000 persons attended the summer concert last night in Constitution Park by the Cumberland Municipal Band.

The band was conducted by Robert O. Nutter, instrumental instructor at Fort Hill High School who substituted for W. Valgene Routh.
